Josefa Vaughan	Remote ArtSeed Earth Week Art-a-thon Active Planning now Sundays 1-3pm! For Saturday, April 25, 2020, 10 a.m.-8 p.m. www.artseed.org Josefa, 415-656-9849. Open to all,
Jeff	Another source of relief grants for artists is Artist Relief: https://www.artistrelief.org/
Mary Early	I submitted a PPP Loan the first day the application portal was open with my bank ...all the banks were unprepared for the volume and review process is significantly delayed.
Christina @ 3SN	https://www.documentary.org/event/applying-federal-coronavirus-relief-filmmaker

Nora Halpern	I recommend trying again with your bank. They were not given clear instructions or time to rev up at first...but I hear it is better now.
Jeff	There may be another funding source for artists in distress. There are some artists who are not in financial distress. So, it's possible for artists to donate to help other artists. I'm working with Artist Relief. I am donating a portion of my sales to them to help artists in dire financial need. Just something to think about.
Christina @ 3SN	State and Regional Arts Organizations https://www.arts.gov/partners/state-regional
Kate Lanxner	The late ex-Beatle George Harrison's charitable The Material World Foundation is already donating $500,000 to three relief efforts for COVID-19 but to raise more funds they have put out a call for songwriters or lyricists to donate a chorus or verse, based on the Beatle song "The Inner Light" to raise more funds (donating $1 for each contribution)#innerlight2020.
Johannes Birringer	I'd be interested in hearing about lateral and bottom up work. in my community, that is what we do, we grow things slowly and start finding old strategies, not new normals.
Dianne Beal	Maybe for the next Town Hall meeting we can discuss new strategies for virtual and / or real distribution of artistic creation.
Christina @ 3SN	Phyllis Hecht, John Hopkins University, Museum Studies Founder and Program Director https://advanced.jhu.edu/academics/graduate-degree-programs/museum-studies/
Richard L Dana	Annette - The Athenaeum has a call for entry for a COVID-19 related exhibition
Jason Horowitz	More than 1500 of us have come together to start a DMV Covid-19 socially distanced art sales FB group to connect artists and art lovers/collectors. Please join us! https://www.facebook.com/groups/218175095938069/
Robin Markowitz	COVID-19 Art Festival Newsletter that includes over 70 links to grants/financial aid and targeted resource lists for the visual artist community - please feel free to share with your artists. https://conta.cc/2yziz9a
Phyllis Hecht	#drinkingaboutart
Cory	Nobody has mentioned AHCMC yet, but I want to acknowledge that they have worked to aid grant recipients and reach out to Montgomery County artists for more aid possibilities.
Jackie Hoysted	good point Cory! https://www.montgomerycountymd.gov/Biz-Resources/pheg/?mc_cid=5a9b2c0c00&mc_eid=0de8b261f4

Elizabeth Bracey	Fabulous! We have been talking about how this situation has caused our organization, and so many others, to stretch and grow and rethink service delivery. Anyone who ISNT already thinking about ways to maintain a virtual presence after this isolation is over, will be missing an opportunity to connect in new ways.
Josefa Vaughan	Let's continue positive Climate Change habits of slowing down! We in California want your ideas and art for Sept 3- Oct 3 exhibition "Only Zombies Race to Mass Extinction!" Call Josefa at 415-656-9849 or go to www.ArtSeed.org please!
Richard L Dana	Jeff - Here's a link to the Athenaeum's call https://artist.callforentry.org/festivals_unique_info.php?ID=7719
Tanya D.	On instagram, many artists and MFA students have been creating a social distancing gallery.
Shauna lee lange	We're helping artists who want to participate in the December Miami Art Fairs. Well over 45 shows are currently looking for talent. Let's collaborate @shaunaleelangestudio - your florida #drinkingaboutart pal.
Tanya D.	Oh Hi Christina :smile:
Dianne Beal	Have begun a new initiative interviewing artists on video about a favorite artwork https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=6TYLk2RdkxE&feature=youtu.be
Allison Nance	Shout out to HM Watt from Hirshhorn for initiating #MuseumBouquet
Jeff	What about artists have a social hour online so we can get to know each other?
Allison Nance	Jeff and all, any artists that want to get on a Zoom group chat, you can sign up here if you would like: bit.ly/hillyer-artist-hangout
Dianne Beal	And, will be collaborating with artists, curators and others on line. Feel free to reach out @galeriebluesquare.com
Ruth Noack	interesting for me to see that even throughout the third space, the art world remains segregated on so many levels...
Deb Bissen	the lack of diversity is striking - how can we improve that for next time?
Ruth Noack	But moved here to open The Corner for Whitman-Walker, a LGBTQ and HIV care focused health organisation
L. Lee	I'm game to helping find a bridge. I am a woman of color and I'm in favor of connecting to all communities.
Gabrielle Tillenburg	Thanks for bringing that up, Ruth. I'm thinking about how while digital content can be a great tool to bring art to more people, but it is still inequitable because not everyone can afford the technology or internet to participate.

Dianne Beal	Exhibitions and space are the bedrock for all artists! Thank you all DC non-profit organizations, museums and galleries!!
Sharon Malley	Would like to connect more with you, Ruth Noack - see www.malleygallery.com if you want to connect - thanks!
Ruth Noack	Yes, Sharon: TheCorner@whitman-walker.org .
Gabrielle Tillenburg	RE: Sleep; The Nap Ministry has been putting out good content about rest as a form of resistance, especially right now.
Ruth Noack	We actually have an exhibition in our closed space right now about the children in detention centers along the border - they are so invisible right now, even though there is the occasional article in a newspaper, and they are so precarised and COVID-19 is impacting on that in terrible ways. So there is a whole other aspect to all this discussion...
Craig	This should be a regular event -- a kind of check-in with arts organizations and funders (this feels like there is a world out there and inherently builds a community of 429 people but representing organizations in the DMV - to see how this unfolds in a month, say. Also, to do one that is a virtual tour of the museums spaces and the third-space art projects -- as if the curator was giving us a tour.
Ruth Noack	if you are interested in this: DYKWTC.com
Veronica Szalus	Yes, the Athenaeum just put out a call for this.
Molly McCracken	Arlington Library is doing Quaranzine
Emily	Woodlawn/Pope-Leighey House is going to add any needlework that is created during this time to our annual Needlework Show when we reopen.
Allison Nance	@cheryl this is really hard, but I know we are all looking at the best ways to do this. In the meantime, some commercial galleries that already had some tools in place such as Matterport are doing a good job at this:
David Mordini	Otis Street Arts Project is
Allison Nance	https://matterport.com/industries/gallery/mirus-art-gallery
Camilla David	The Athenaeum just sent out a call related to Covid
Josefa Vaughan	Yes! ArtSeed artists and youth are making art about this time, Covid-19 and more...
Shanti Norris	Prince George Parks and Recreation exhibit for Brentwood Arts annual call this summer for fall show will be about Community as impacted by Covid Pandemic
Veronica Szalus	The Athenaeum will be hosting Moments in Time – A Very Weird Time in September and we have a Doodles of these Times as an ongoing online exhibit.

Sarah Burford	On building community virtually around this experience - Kanyer Art Collection has been doing a call to collage artists on instagram with the theme "Finding calm while we wait" https://kolaimagazine.com/content/content/calls-for-artists/call-to-artists-finding-calm-while-we-wait-inspiring-hope/
Jodi Kolker Ferrier	I have created a Porch-side Gallery showing work outside my house. My neighbors are so intrigued and appreciative. I would highly recommend it to anyone who has the capability of doing it!
Sally Canzoneri	Ruth Noack. Have you seen the photo exhibit that the National Building Museum has up on its web site now? Maybe you could do something similar to get your show on line.
Ruth Noack	Love the Athenaeum and think we should all connect these exhibitions in the haptic space
Mary Early	Washington Sculptors Group is currently collecting submissions on "Persisting Through the Shutdown".. details and submission form "https://docs.google.com/forms/d/e/1FAIpQLScBqv_r7bFx-uHn0Gffzvgv14Qm3nxog9-41n8_YPNQPjra2g/viewform
Judith Pratt	Yes, the Washington Sculptors Group is devoting the next issue of its newsletter to member artists practicing during COVID-19 and Second Street Gallery In Charlottesville, VA as well.
Helen Frederick	Check out the Environmental Situation Room on Facebook.
Annie Farrar	Washington Sculptors Group has a current call for our newsletter for how member artists are spending the time at home https://www.facebook.com/events/695318831215321
Susan Main	I like the idea of more independent artists finding ways to bring their work or the work of other artists to the light during this time. A challenge for all DMV artists. Allison Nance mentioned Dane Winkler's Artist Talks as an example on instagram. Think about it everyone.
